Traveling with Pets

Category : Resources
Published by Specialprojects on 2007/10/7

Pet Friendly Airlines
Click here for a list of pet-friendly airlines that let pets travel in the passenger cabin.

You may need a certificate from your veterinarian, usually dated no more than 10 days prior to your trip, that confirms your dog is healthy. Temperatures at your departure and arrival cities can also affect whether your pet may travel.

Stay At Home Options
Professional pet-sitters can come to your home and feed, walk and play with your dog and some will even stay overnight. They often spend about 35 minutes per visit, according to Pet Sitters International. Visit http://www.petsit.com/ for details or to locate a pet-sitter in your area. Provide the telephone number where you can be reached as well as numbers for a local contact and your veterinarian.

Pet Friendly Hotels

For a complete listing of pet-friendly lodging, visit PetsWelcome.com.

Loews Hotels 1-800-23-LOEWS. Local dog-walking routes, pet pagers, pet room service and more, depending on location.

Kimpton Hotels 1-800-KIMPTON. Doggy treats, tags, beds and more, depending on location.

LaQuinta Inn 1-800-531-5900. Most properties accept pets at no extra charge and have no weight restrictions.

Motel 6 1-800-4-MOTEL6. Most properties accept dogs at no extra charge if they weigh 80 pounds or less.

Howard Johnson 1-800-446-4656. More than 170 pet-friendly locations; additional charges and weight restrictions may apply.

Be sure to call ahead to make reservations and inquire about any special restrictions. For a complete listing of hotels that accept pets as well as a wealth of other pet travel information, visit http://www.petsonthego.com/.