

My Story Of being a big sister

My name is Kennedy and I have a little sister. My little sister is not like any other people's little sisters. My sister has special needs. So I have to show compassion. It may be frustrating some times. But I learned to deal with it.

my sister can be really annoying sometimes. The way I show compassion to her is heres an example when she learns things I already know how to do and I try to act impressed. Also I have to help her to pronounced her words correctly. Also my mom and dad don't understand her sometime so I'm the one who always have to figure it out.

It can be frustrating for me because they don't treat her the way they treat me she doesn't get yelled at as much as I do when she does really bad thing. I try to control my myself and remember she's different from most people and that's how I show compassion.
