

SUMMER SAFETY

Why Pet ID Tags are Important

Where is Rocky's Collar?

Your pet should always wear their collar and identification tag (ID tag). Identification tags have information like your pet's name and your family's phone number. If your pet gets lost, their identification tag will help the person who finds your pet get in touch with your family.

Rocky lost his collar, can you find it?

Even though cats should live indoors, they should wear ID tags in case they accidentally get loose!

This kitty needs an ID tag! Pick out a name for her. Then write the name on the ID tag along with your phone number.

Magical Microchips

Pets can also have a microchip, which is a tiny chip inside their body that identifies who they are and who they belong to in case they get lost. Veterinarians and animal shelters have special scanners that read the microchips so that the pet's family can be contacted.
